Kundenrezensionen Hilfreichste Kundenrezensionen 0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. The illustrations are fantastic! Von Hans We are very impressed by the extremely beautiful illustrations in this book, the illustrator Gwenda Sonneveld is a creative genius!!! It seems she can turn every piece of text into a wonderful adventure that readers of all ages will adore. Each illustration in this book is so funny and so perfectly drawn, we just can't wait to see more children's books by this majorly talented illustrator!!

Kurzbeschreibung In this charming and whimsical rhyming story, Gigi and her mom try to guess what kind of bug is tickling Gigi's brain. Bug in the Brain is as much fun to read out loud as it is to hear. The book is also a visual treat full of enchanting, colorful illustrations of Gigi's backyard world for you and your little one to explore. Ages 3-5 ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Audrey Eggers Thompson: Audrey has worked with kids, one way or another, most of her life, including formerly as owner and operator of Bizi Kidz Drop-In Child Care in Winston-Salem, NC and presently as a pre-school teacher, a job she loves. Her motto has always been the more the merrier and that pertains to children, family, animals, and friends. Which is a good thing since she is mom to two delightful daughters, two dogs, one cat, various other animals from time to time, and wife to the wonderful John Mark. Born in Mobile, Alabama in 1982, Audrey has lived most of her life in beautiful Winston-Salem, NC. Her recent story-telling skills surprised everyone, including Audrey, when one day out of the clear blue, she said her brain started thinking up rhyming stories about a little girl named Gigi, and a series developed loosely based on her experiences with her own children, so now Audrey is an author! Fittingly, her first book is Bug in My Brain.
