by Shyam Mehta is one of the most functional and practical books found. In his work he defines the true value of ENGLISH as a language. Shyam Mehta presents a book which will make your child's vocabulary absolutely super. This book acts as a guide which would not only help the kids but the parents as well, making their work of teaching much less complicated. The book starts with three letter words which are vital for any child to know such as- any and all, end and so on. After that it moves to two letter words followed by some important symbols, For example- at if so, To and (, ), ., ?. The book continues to add a little more with a few significant words and phrases, for instance: crime unmasked nowhere turmeric and phrases like absence makes the heart grow fonder, so on and so forth. The book not only gives the words, symbols and phrases needed by the child, but also gives in a systematic way the tools for the parents to make their child learn and grasp language in no time. Shyam says that grammar usage is deep-rooted and does not need to be taught. In short, a child's verbal and non-verbal communication skills are developed with less time and without much effort. What one needs to work on is the lexicon. Shyam says that children should be taught from a very young age so as to make their knowledge long-lasting. There are about seven thousand key words listed in the book which will help a child develop his/her verbal and intellectual abilities. I suggest that everyone should read this book, simply because developing vocabulary is one of the most overlooked ways of improving one's life. It is often believed that learning many words is only useful for writers and speakers, but the truth is that everyone benefits from it, both personally and professionally. It not only sharpens your communication skills, but also opens your mind. Another factor which makes this book outstanding is that it focuses on young children, who can be nourished well, with expressions, as they possess excellent grasping power. This book works as a building block for kids! Review by: Ishita, journalist with a leading news company in India.
