Not a good book for finding biblical authenticityVon David SunThe one chapter i focused on were Hunt's answers to questions on Contradictions in the Bible. I believe the Bible is infallible, but Hunt does a poor job answering questions. He answers with the attitude that anyone who would raise questions is dumb and he speaks as if everyone against him is a moron. In answering the questions to when Jesus was crucified, he says that the last supper was not the passover, which John seems to say, if you don't read the synoptic gospels. The other gospels clearly say the last supper was the passover. In turn, while he tries to find a correct order for the events of the crucifixion, he contradicts himself. Then, with the supposed contradictions of who killed Goliath, he goes to infer that David not only killed Goliath, but his 4 other "brothers". Chronicles and Samuel only say they are the descendants of Rapha, not necessarily brothers. The only reason he has for saying David killed all 5 brothers was that he used 5 stones, and says: "that fact also gives us further insight into the incredible accuracy that David had with a sling- he only needed one stone for each giant." I'm sorry, but that's just wrong. In all, Dave Hunt does answer some other contradiction questions correctly and with skill, but overall, his answers are too inconsistent and he loses credibility to the reader. I agree with the other reviewer in that you should read R.C. Sproul's book for better theology.

 Excellent book well written and with well thoughtout answers
 Von Peter J Murgatroyd
 This book is excellent for answering some questions which often get raised especially by non christians about supposed discrepancies in the christian faith. This is an excellent book to give to the intelligent well educated unbeliever with a christian background who doubts the authenticity of the bible or who believes there are discrepancies in the bible that cant be reconciled. This book is also very usefull for evangelism to prepare oneself for common questions unbelievers ask or common objections or mistruths unbelievers raise. I feel my time was well spent reading this book.

 Von Leonardo LCH Lenbenhear
 Forget about reviewers who have an obvious bias against Dave Hunt. This book is really excellent for answering many questions that sometimes arise about difficult Bible questions, supposed contradictions, and the honest questions of various skeptics and unbelievers. Dave Hunt is a life-long student of the Bible and a very devout Christian man. Many Christians and nonchristians will find this book challenging and forthright. I recommend it as a good overview of Christian apologetics for the general public. I think you will find it answers a LOT of important questions.

Kurzbeschreibung When confronted with uncomfortable questions from atheists and agnostics, cultists and pagans, or skeptics and mystics, do your once-firm convictions begin to crumble and compromise? Do you tend to take flight or instead, are you able to stand firm and earnestly contend for the faith? (Jude 3) With the keen eye of an experienced treasure hunter, the author helps readers probe and unearth the incredible wealth of guidance found in God's Word. The resulting adventure will not only strengthen the faith of believers but equip them to live daily according to His revealed truth in an increasingly hostile world. God says it and I believe it. Issue settled, right? Or wrong? This common response may satisfy the faith of some who struggle with answering difficult questions but such a reply does little to ward off assaults from skeptics let alone convince the gainsayers by intelligently giving a reason of the hope that is within you (1 Peter 3:15). Sadly, most critics who wield tough questions with sarcasm do not expect an intelligent response; and tragically, many dismiss the truth when they do get one. However, what about those who legitimately question the Christian faith including weak or battle-weary believers whose spiritual convictions may be hanging by a thread? This fascinating book can be a great help by itself, or used in conjunction with the audio series to assist listeners sincere skeptics and believers alike with more than 40 years experience in seeking (and finding) biblical answers to life's most challenging questions:

- * Why does God allow suffering and evil in the world?*
- * What about all the contradictions in the Bible?*
- * Are some people predestined by God to go to hell?*
- * Why would a merciful God punish people who have never heard of Christ?*
- * How can one tell the difference between God's true light and Satan's seductive counterfeits?

FIND BIBLICAL RESPONSES TO SUCH QUESTIONS AS: Is There a Difference Between Faith and Belief? Is It Wrong to Want Evidence of God? How Do We Deal with Doubts? If We Can Prove God Exists, Why Faith? Why Do Christians Accept Only One God? Who Is the True God? Can We Know God? Are God and Nature the Same? Is It Wrong to Ask God to Reveal Himself? Is Jesus Half-God Half-Man? Is the Bible Reliable? Is the Bible the Only Book of God? Were Biblical Prophecies Written after the Events? Shouldn't We Examine All Religions? Can the Bible Be Verified? How Do We Know Our Copies of the Bible Are Accurate? Can You Make the Bible Say Anything You Want? Is the Bible Infallible? When Was Jesus Born? Do the Gospels
